Boston Wool market.

Boston June 21.—There is a steady market for domestic wool. The sentiment prevalls that the new wools must bring high prices in order that the buyers may clear a profit on the new clip. Some choice lots have recently been disposed of at record values. Receipts of new grades are heavy dally and are increasing. Territory wools are quiet and foreign grades are also inactive, though firm Quotations.

UTAH CHERRIES WILL SOON BECOME SCARCE

Best Utah Peas Are Now for Sale-More Vegetables Are Reduced

in Price.

HERRIES are scarcer this year than usual. While the most promising accounts keep coming from all parts of the country about the fruit crop of the season, cherries are not expected to last as long as they generally do. The reason for this is that, while some time ago prospects were just as good for this fruit as for any others, the late frosts that occurred about two months back affected very many of the cherries. In spite of this the price is about as usual, but they are by no means as plentiful as they might be. Those that are on the market are of very good quality.

Utah marrowfat peas are now on the market. These are the finest variety of this vegetable that comes to the market. The wholesale price of them is 8 cents a pound. They retail at two pounds for 25

Grain and Provisions.

Grain and Provisions,
CHICAGO, June 21.—A big decrease today in the visible supply of wheat overcame almost completely a severe break in prices, the result of bearish crop advices. At the close September wheat was down only a shade. September wheat was down only a shade. September corn is up 1/40%. Oats gained 1/4 and provisions Tigala.

Firm cables and additional rain in the Southwest had a supporting influence on the wheat market at the opening. As a result initial quotations were at a triffe advance over vesterday's close, July being up a shade to 1/40% at 84% to 85.
September was up a shade to 1/40% at 89 to 80%. Pit traders, however, were inclined to the selling side, and on the slight advance sold freely. A number of bearish factors soon came into prominence with the result that the market became extremely weak. One of the main influences in this respect was the weekly weather bureau report, which pronounced all conditions favorable. Another element was the report of the Kansas secretary of agriculture, making an estimate of $2,60,000 bushels as the season's production, compared with $7,000,000 bushels last year. Before the selling pressure abated July declined to $24, and September to $24, During the latter part of the season there was active covering by shorts on a decrease of over two million bushels in the visible supply. Late in the day offerings became quite scarce and in consequence prices were easily forced up to the opening level. Sentiment was firm at the close. Final quotations were up a shade at $14, September closed 75%.

Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 121,700 bushels. Primary receipts, $70,000. The visible supply decreased 2,122,000 bushels, while the world's visible supply, according to Bradstreet's, showed a decrease of $2,00,000 bushels. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 217 cars.

Early in the session sentiment in the corn pit was decidedly weak, but the market closed strong and near the high point. September opened unchanged at 48%, sold between 48 and 49 and closed
